

Award for atmosfair

November 2021, Glasgow (England): On the occasion of its 25th anniversary, AEPC presents atmosfair with an award for its long-standing support and partnership in Nepal.

Our long-time partner for the small-scale biogas plant project in Nepal, the Alternative Energy Promotion Centre (AEPC), celebrates its 25th anniversary this year.

AEPC is a governmental organization established under the Nepalese Ministry of Energy, Water Resources and Irrigation (MoEWRI). Thanks to the financial support of atmosfair and AEPC, poorer families can also afford the small-scale biogas plants.

Handing over the award from AEPC to atmosfair at COP26.
(left to right): Florian Eickhold (atmosfair), Madhu Prasad Bhetuwal (MoEWRI), Devendra Karki (MoEWRI), Klaus Milke (atmosfair), Madhusudhan Adhikari (AEPC), Nawa Raj Dhakal (AEPC)

Madhusudhan Adhikari (AEPC) congratulates Klaus Milke (atmosfair).

On the occasion of its 25th anniversary, AEPC presented atmosfair with an award as a thank-you in appreciation for its long-standing support and partnership in the expansion of renewable energy in Nepal. The award was handed over to Klaus Milke and Florian Eickhold from atmosfair in Glasgow at COP26. In addition to Madhusudhan Adhikari and Nawa Raj Dhakal from AEPC, two representatives of MoEWRI also attended the handover.